Re Item V

Reasoned statement with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

Reference is made to the following documents:

- D1: PATENT ABSTRACTS OF JAPAN vol. 1997, no. 07, 31 July 1997 (1997-07-31) & JP 09 059355 A (AGENCY OF IND SCIENCE & AMP; TECHNOL; STANLEY ELECTRIC CO LTD), 4 March 1997 (1997-03-04)
- D2: WO 99/21935 A (SAMUEL IFOR DAVID WILLIAM ; HALIM MOUNIR (GB); ISIS INNOVATION (GB)) 6 May 1999 (1999-05-06)
- D3: LUO J ET AL: "Synthesis, Light Emission, and Optical Limiting of Hyperbranched Poly[Phenylene-alt-(2,5-Thienylene)s]" POLYMER PREPRINTS, vol. 42, no. 2, 2001, pages 527-528, XP009020396
- D4: ESFAND R ET AL: "POLY(AMIDOAMINE) (PAMAM) DENDRIMERS: FROM BIOMIMICRY TO DRUG DELIVRY AND BIOMEDICAL APPLICATIONS" DRUG DISCOVERY TODAY, ELSEVIER SCIENCE LTD, GB, vol. 6, no. 8, April 2001 (2001-04), pages 427-436, XP001029831 ISSN: 1359-6446
- The present application relates to 1.
  - a dendrimer (see claims 1-11), and
  - an electronic device (see claims 12-16) (ii)
- The literature makes a distinction between hyperbranched polymers and dendrons 2. or dendrimers (cf. D4, Figure 1). Although a true distinction is only possible after a certain degree of "maturation", it is to be noted that the present application is actually directed to dendrimers.
- Document D1 discloses polymeric materials obtained from the general Formula 1. 3. These polymeric materials are obtained by a Grignard process. It appears that said method does not result in very regular structures (ie dendrimers) as the divergent or convergent method used in the present application, but to more irregular structures, ie hyperbranched polymers.
- Document D2 discloses light-emitting dendrimers and devices made thereof (cf. 4. claims 1-37; page 3, line 20 to page 6, line 21). In claim 15 thiophene and divinylthiophene are expresses verbis cited as core molecules. However, it appears that D2 does not disclose a repetition of the thiophene molecules and does therefore not disclose the structure as defined in paragraph 1 above.

- 5. Document D3 discloses hyperbranched poly[phenylene-ALT-(2,5-thienylene)s]. Since the disclosed molecular weights are 8654 Daltons or higher it may be reasonable to assume that an hyperbranched structure is obtained and not a dendron or dendrimer.
- The subject matter of the claims on file are therefore deemed to meet the 6. requirements of Art. 33(2) PCT.
- The object of the present claimed application is to provide for further dendrimers 7. serving as organic semiconductor materials which is isotropic and exhibits a high carrier conductivity, as well as semiconductor devices containing said dendrimer (see page 7, lines 5-9).

The examples show that said object has been met.

Since the available prior art does not contain any incentive for the skilled worker to provide for the claimed dendrimers exhibiting the required properties, an inventive step can be recognised (Art. 33(3) PCT).

The present application satisfies the criterion set forth in Article 33(4) PCT 8. because the subject matter of claims 1-16 is industrially applicable.
